Project Hussaini Home:

Educational Activity Project Hussaini Home should provide its residents with access to quality education, both formal and informal. The project should also provide opportunities for the children to engage in educational activities outside of the classroom.

Here are some ideas for educational activities that could be implemented at the Sheltered House Project for Orphan Students:

- After-school tutoring: Tutors could help the children with their homework and provide additional support in subjects where they are struggling.
- Enrichment classes: Enrichment classes could cover a variety of topics, such as art, music, dance, sports, and technology.
- Field trips: Field trips to museums, zoos, libraries, and other educational institutions would give the children a chance to learn outside of the classroom and experience new things.
- Mentoring programs: Mentors could provide the children with guidance and support as they navigate their education and prepare for the future.
- Vocational training: Vocational training (Parachinar Student Council) could help the children to develop skills that they can use to find jobs and support themselves after they leave the shelter.

In addition to these specific activities, the Project Hussaini Home should create an environment that is conducive to learning. This could include providing the children with access to books and other educational materials, creating quiet spaces where they can study, and encouraging them to ask questions and explore their interests. Here are some specific design features that could be incorporated into the Project Hussaini Home to support educational activities:
